Effective communication is not just about verbal clues, but also about non-verbal signals such as body language and gestures. Posture, Facial expressions, eye contact and hand movements convey just as much information as your words. Confident body language, like standing up straight and making purposeful gestures, can emphasize message and engage the audience. Being mindful of one's body language and gestures can help in conveying confidence, building trust and enhance overall communication skills. That's why this workshop is organised among the students of the department.
